

AM I A MANUFACTURER?

Manufacturers don't just make widgets or gadgets. Food, textiles, chemicals, and more are all considered manufactured products! Follow the flowchart to see if you're a manufacturer and how FuzeHub could help you!

✕ START HERE TO FIND OUT IF YOU'RE A MANUFACTURER

1 Do I physically transform raw materials or components into a product?

No

FuzeHub may still be able to help you if you're a product innovator or if you support other manufacturers.

Click Here to Learn More >>

Yes

2 Do I make things in a repeatable way (or plan to)?

No

If you're struggling to scale up or if you make custom items, FuzeHub may still be able to help.

Click Here to Learn More >>

Yes

3 Do I have a business entity?

No

You may need to form one if you want to access New York State-funded resources.

Click Here to Learn More >>

Yes

4 Does my company have a D&B Number and Manufacturing NAICS code?

No

Contact Dun & Bradstreet to get them. FuzeHub can help you if you don't know how.

Click Here to Learn More >>

Yes

Did You Know...

In addition to manufacturers, FuzeHub works with technology companies.

For example, if you're developing an Industry 4.0 solution, we may be able to help you.

To work with a contract manufacturer, you will probably require a set of engineering drawings, a bill of material, and a bill of process, not just a rendering or prototype.

FuzeHub can connect companies to resources that offer great business guidance, including NY SBDC (Small Business Development Center), NYS Certified Business Incubators, and Innovation Hot Spots

D&B assigns numerical codes to every business entity, which are important for proving business credibility, establishing industry affiliation, and may be required for certain grant eligibility.

You're a Manufacturer!

Click here to see all the resources FuzeHub offers to New York State manufacturers!

Contact Us Today

fuzehub.com/expert-consultation

518.768.7030 | info@fuzehub.com

